I think it better that a uniform rule was laid down - that half pension may be given in these cases after 30 years of service : & that exceptions be not Allowed. Orders solicited.

In the present case I would follow precedent and grant a concession - I am quite of the Secretary's opinion that in regard to future cases of this kind there ought to be a rule, application for exceptional treatment being by its inconvenient - let the pension ~~[redacted]~~ admissible under the new rule not exceed that already allowed as a special case - one half of pay seems too much in the case of menial servants -
